

While people with phobias can search to find out if shows have what they fear in them, the information rarely shows where within an episode that fear is shown.

While watching tv people with extreme phobias may search up shows or episodes to find out if their phobia is in a show and in which episode it might be in. The problem is that it is rarely shown where in the episode this phobia is. There should be a way for people to know with a quick search which episodes their phobias are in and the general area in which they are shown.
